Rhine Republicans Forced To Withdraw By Loyal Populace

Coblentz, Mayence, Crefeld And Duesseldorf Retaken By Government Forces

ALLIES REMAIN NEUTRAL

Nine Reported Slain In Evacuation Of "Capital" By Defeated Party

Duesseldorf—The Rhineland Republican movement has spent its force, according to reports over the crippled wire systems, but the situation is still confused. The Republicans took a few additional villages and towns Tuesday and Tuesday night but cleared out of Coblentz, their capital, and Mayence, and reaction is apparent in a number of the towns they hold.

NINE SLAIN IN COBLENTZ
London—Reports received in Berlin indicate the Rhineland Republicans are losing ground, says a dispatch to the Central News. They have been ejected from Coblentz, the message states, nine persons being killed. The Republicans have been driven from Duesseldorf and Crefeld, the dispatch adds.

"REPUBLICANS SEEM LACKING"
Paris—A Rhineland republic has been proclaimed at Coblentz and a provisional government has been appointed, but as a satirical French newspaper puts it, Republicans seem lacking.

The situation of the Separatists Wednesday morning is not brilliant. They made no headway Tuesday; rather the reverse. They appear definitely to have lost Aix La Chapelle and also their hold on other places as the Loyalists police react from the first surprise of the coup and realize that the French and Belgian authorities are perfectly sincere in their neutrality and have no intention of interfering except to stop bloodshed.

LOYALISTS REGAIN AIX
Aix La Chapelle—Half a dozen persons were killed and scores were wounded as the Loyalists regained possession of Aix La Chapelle.

The movement to oust the Separatists from the government building which began to form Monday night had gained strength by Tuesday morning and before noon some of the Separatists who had been in the structure were attacked by the crowd. Their comrades in the building came to the rescue, seized motor trucks and drove through the streets firing right and left into the throng.

The situation became too much for the local police and Belgian troops arrived on the scene, clearing the streets and driving the Separatists back to their last remaining stronghold. After a semicircle of order had been restored, Police Commissioner Wilmès went to the government building in which only forty Republicans, commanded by Leo Deckers were fortified, and gave the invaders until 3 o'clock in the afternoon to evacuate the premises.

Herr Buhr later offered the besieged one more chance to surrender peacefully within fifteen minutes, promising that trucks would be furnished to take the Separatists away. The commissioner said he would personally accompany them and guarantee protection from the mob.

Within the next few minutes a truck load of blue police arrived and put a ladder up to the window. The officers were beginning to ascend when Herr Buhr called upon them to halt. After a short conversation among the allied officers it was decided not to allow the police to storm the building as this would only involve more bloodshed.

Thus the situation remained at sunset.

DOORN VISITS MAY MEAN PLOT TO GET CROWN

Conspiracy To Restore Hohenzollerns Suspected By Dutch Authorities

Doorn, Holland — The visit which former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia is now making at Doorn castle is regarded as having considerable significance.

According to information from several reliable sources and from persons close to the former Kaiser, the presence of the prince in Doorn is connected with the return of Princess Hermine from the Reich, whence she brought very important news concerning the activities of the Nationalist Military party and the chances of the eventual return of William Hohenzollern to the throne.

It is stated that Hermine herself is displaying great activity and that all her keen intelligence is directed toward the object and hope of becoming empress. Moreover, quite recently an officer of high rank from Dresden and a political personage from Munich have been guests of the former emperor, who since this visit has shown great nervousness.

A detail regarded as curious is the fact that a Doorn furniture dealer has been commissioned to sell a large quantity of the rich tapestries and curtains belonging to the exile, and also a large part of his wardrobe.

The Dutch government and authorities are closely watching the movements of the ex-Kaiser and his son and the police force guarding them has been doubled.

"Flexible Tariff" Law Causes Court Squabble

Chicago—An attempt to discover the ancient doctrines and beliefs of the four thousand year old religion of Egyptian feudalism will be made by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, in sending an expedition to Cairo, Egypt, in December. The expedition will be led by Professor James Henry Breasted, chairman of the department of Oriental languages at the university and director of the Oriental Institute. Professor Breasted was present when the tomb of King Tutankhamen was opened last spring.

It is planned to make hand copies of the Egyptian hieroglyphs found inscribed on the inner surfaces of the sides and tops of the old feudal coffins. These texts contain the religious beliefs prevalent in Egypt at 2,000 B. C., according to Professor Breasted.

Already various interests which are bound to be affected by the forthcoming action of the tariff commission are anticipating a court procedure to learn definitely whether congress can delegate its tariff-making powers.

The tariff commission is at work on several petitions for a change in rates. The commission probably will present its first recommendations in four products—cassia, which is used by book publishers in coating paper; paint brush handles; wall pockets used to insert brushes and other articles; and sodium nitrate.

Whether the rates are increased or diminished, the companies affected are said to be anxious to make sure that the action of the commission, when proclaimed by the president is not subject to a court challenge.

SENATOR SAYS FORD WILL WIN IF NOMINATED

Automobile Magnate Must Declare Party Affiliation To Be Named

Chicago—If Henry Ford is nominated by either party he will be elected, in the opinion of Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, who denied here Tuesday night that plans were set for running as mate with Ford on an independent ticket.

Senator Copeland intimated that Ford had strong chances of winning either party nomination if he would but announce his party affiliation.

"The trouble is nobody seems to know to which party Ford belongs," the New York senator said. "I assume the Republican party will not nominate him unless he announces himself a Democrat. I know the Democrats will not unless he announces himself a Democrat."

"Ford will continue to be known as the world's greatest automobile manufacturer if he attempts to enter the White House through the third party route," Dr. Copeland said. He declared he had never seen Ford in his life and could not accept a place on any third party ticket himself because he is a Democrat.

FARMER SLEW SELF AND FAMILY, BELIEF

Bend, Ore.—Authorities said Wednesday that they were convinced that the tragedy on the farm near Deschutes Tuesday, revealed by the charred bodies of a woman, a married couple and four children was caused by Eli Chasse, the farmer, who according to this theory, killed his sister, Mrs. Anna Laust, and his baby daughter and his three children whose ages were 5, 7, and 9, and then, after setting fire to the house, ended his own life with a revolver.

At the corner's inquest, testimony indicated that Chasse had been despondent because of financial difficulties and had threatened his family.

Ex-Captive Of China Bandits Returns Home

Governor Remains Silent But Thought To Be Preparing For Battle

San Francisco—Bandits is a business in China and the kidnapping of foreigners is an outstanding feature of such business, according to Major E. W. Finger, U. S. A., who was held captive by bandits in the Shantung province for 37 days last spring, and who recently arrived here on the army transport Grant.

All of the lower classes in Shantung take part in bandit raids occasionally, Major Finger said. "Kidnaping of foreigners and holding them for ransom is the only way that some of the coolies have of obtaining money."

"Of the 2,500 who captured our party only a few hundred were professional robbers. The others were simply half wild ex-farmers who had been driven to banditry because of the destruction of their farms."

K. K. K. WIZARD ATTACKS NEGRO, JEW, CATHOLIC

Evans, imperial wizard, in a speech which was announced as outlining fully for the first time the policies of the Ku Klux Klan regarding restriction of immigration and its program in this respect.

Dr. Evans recommended that the United States revise its policy so as to make its own selection of the class of immigrants wanted and then to invite them, while excluding all not invited, Dr. Evans said.

The imperial wizard declared there are millions of illiterates and diseased people in the United States and that the future of America depends upon the present policy on immigration.

PRaise MOOSE AS NEW HOME IS DEDICATED

Huge Crowd Attends Dedication Program in Lodge's Temple.

A crowd which threatened to tax the capacity of the building saw the Moose temple, formerly Busby's business college, publicly set aside for lodge purposes at the dedication program held in the new quarters Tuesday evening.

Members of the rapidly growing local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose and their families, as well as members of the women's auxiliary, Women of the Mooseheart Legion, congregated in large numbers to inspect the renovated building. A number of changes which had taken place in the structure during the last few weeks were little to recognize in it a former school building.

Words of congratulation on the possession of a Moose home were expressed in addresses by out of town speakers. The rapid growth of the local lodge also was a cause for felicitations. Not only did the speakers urge the members to increased activity, but predicted that before long Lausman gets through with it, the quarters will be increased to three times its present size.

CONGRATULATE CITY

Appleton and the Fox River valley also were congratulated on having such a handsome fraternal building in its midst, and members were told that their home compares well with anything in the state of Wisconsin or the city of Chicago.

Three addresses were delivered. The speakers were Judge Edgar V. Warner of Shawano, fourth judicial district, circuit court; Ben O'Hara of Chicago, deputy grand regent and past dictator of the Milwaukee lodge; Mrs. Ramsey, Chicago, deputy grand regent, Women of Mooseheart Legion; F. J. Roemer, dictator of the Appleton lodge, acted as toastmaster.

Two songs, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold," were sung by a male quartet, consisting of George Schneider, Thomas and Robert Potter and Merrill Latham. Several solos, namely a gypsy song and songs in Irish and negro dialect, were sung by Mrs. W. H. Dean, Robert F. McGilgan entertained the assembly with a collection of funny stories.

REVIEWS HISTORY

Judge Warner, who was the first to speak, briefly reviewed the history of the international order. The first lodge was founded in 1885, he said, but the orders did not show great progress until in 1905 when Secretary of Agriculture James J. Davis became supreme organizer and the proposal was made to erect a children's home and institute. The institute built at Mooseheart, Ill., became the foundation for the success of the order. The spirit of fellowship, cooperation and reciprocity among the members, especially in times of sickness and death was lauded by the speaker. In the principles expressed in the ritual lies the foundation of the peace of the world, he declared.

PROTECTS CHILDREN

Its influence is visible in the institute at Mooseheart. There homeless children are cared for physically, mentally, spiritually and socially, removed from the evil influences of this modern age.

Mrs. Ramsey spoke in behalf of the new children's unit known as the Junior Mooseheart Legion branches, of which are being organized throughout the country.

The fact that the children of Mooseheart institute needed a mother's prayers, her interest and her efforts in their behalf was the inspiration for the organization of the Women of the Mooseheart Legion which has multiplied until it now numbers 750 chapters, she said. The children's unit was organized last February and aims to take in children from infancy up to 18 1/2 years for boys and 16 1/2 years for girls.

PRaises LODGE HERE

Mr. O'Hara was profuse with praise for the Appleton lodge and the new temple which has recently become their possession. He looked for great things in this city and the Fox River valley. A record of 500 members and 140 members in the women's auxiliary is one to be proud of, he asserted, but he cautioned against the feeling of contentment and urged it to persevere to attain still greater growth.

The dedication program was preceded by a banquet in the banquet hall on the second floor, and followed by a dance in the lodge room. Two sitings were necessary to accommodate all the guests at the banquet tables.

Heard By Circuit Court Jury

Damages in the sum of $15,000 are asked by Mrs. Pauline Mitschka of Kaukauna of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company in a case now being tried by a jury in circuit court.

Mrs. Mitschka alleged through her attorneys, Martin, Martin & Martin, of Green Bay, that she has suffered permanent injury to her nervous system as a result of touching a wire fence which was in contact with an electric wire of the traction company. She received the shock in front of her home at Kaukauna on April 27, 1918.

While in court Wednesday, Mrs. Mitschka trembled like an aspen leaf and was supported by those attending her. An electric feed wire, it was said, was suspended over the road in close proximity to a girl wire supporting a post carrying a Postal Telegraph wire. The girl wire stretches through the wire fence of the Mitschka home, it is said.

A. K. Ellis, general manager of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, was on the witness stand as court adjourned at noon to Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Schroth will continue on the force as a regular clerk and his official appointment has been dated back from Oct. 1. The appointment will allow master-general's department. # U. OF W. SOON TO LAUNCH NEW STATE RETAILING BUREAU

Corbett Receives Reber's Promise Of Highly Efficient Store Promotion

Dreams of Wisconsin merchants for a highly organized and efficient bureau of retailing are about to be realized through plans announced by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce by Dean Louis E. Reber, head of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

A program is now in the making for research work, special courses, store classes, merchandising institutes and other educational and statistical service that will place the stores of the state on a higher plane of profits and community usefulness.

FILES OF U. OF W. GAP
Mr. Corbett in his capacity of president of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries was in conference with Dean Reber while in Madison last week and was given assurance that the extension division would function to the limit of its resources to help the retailers, and even to achieve other objects which were gone into because there is no state chamber of commerce of which this could be a department.

Tentative plans for the retail bureau include the engaging of one of the best retailing experts obtainable, and he will spend his entire time in the work of solving the problems of merchandising and service. It will be possible for communities to conduct trade-in institutes at a nominal cost through the bureau which the merchants help support, instead of being compelled to pay three to five hundred dollars to have men come in from other states to do this work. With the vast amount of data already in possession of the university and the facilities there the work will be done more efficiently, and with greater application to local needs, it is said.

NEW COURSES
The extension division has just completed three new courses in retailing, either for correspondence study or local class work. They deal respectively with retail store management, advertising and selling, and are said to surpass anything ever before offered by the state. A teaching outline is to be prepared for each, so leaders within various stores may conduct the lessons for the sales force.

This bureau, Mr. Corbett declares, will serve as a clearing house for ideas and as a factor in obtaining standard practices and science in selling. He expects to receive an outline in a few days of what the extension division can offer.

MAY CHANGE MANAGEMENT OF A. A. L. BOWLING CLUB

Notices have been sent to all members of the Lutheran Aid Bowling Club to attend the meeting in insurance building Friday evening at which change of management of the club will be decided. The meeting starts at 7:30, with W. C. Bell, president of branch No. 1, of the Aid association for Lutherans presiding.

The club is to decide whether it is ready to take over operation of the bowling alleys and club facilities maintained in the basement of the building. The management now rests with a committee of the A. A. L. branch, carrying out a temporary plan which was to exist only until the club could assume the responsibility itself.

NEW TRUST BUILDING HAS LARGEST BANKING ROOMS

By Associated Press

Judge Offers 20 Acre Camp To Boy Scouts

Judge E. V. Warner of the tenth judicial district is a strong supporter of the boy scout movement. In a brief talk before the Rotary club Tuesday noon he said he had in the neighborhood of 40 acres on Shawano lake which he desired to offer as a campsite for boys scouts and the American legion. It is high and dry and sanitary, is one mile from the Indian reservation, and has 20 rods lake privileges, he said.

"It has been intimated," said the judge, "that the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, cooperating with the one here, expects to give us about 20 street cars. If these cars can be put on concrete foundations and properly screened you will have sleeping quarters for quite an army. I am ready to go into this work heart and soul and push it along, and I invite all the cooperation I can get from you."

FILES OF U. OF W. GAP
Henry A. Babcock presided at the meeting in the absence of Dr. E. H. Brooks, president, who was out of the city. It was announced that instead of a luncheon a joint meeting of members and their ladies will be held next Tuesday evening.

Upon motion of Louis Bonini, a member of the boys' work committee, a vote of thanks was tendered to the chamber of commerce for providing office and table room to the boy scout council free of cost.

CARDS SHOW SUM TOURISTS SPENT

Registration records of Allea tourist camps have been turned over to the chamber of commerce by George Merkel, caretaker, and will reveal accurately how much the tourists spent while in Appleton. There are hundreds of cards, and each is not only the name, address, destination and number of persons of a party, but also items showing expenditures for groceries, gasoline and oil, clothing, accessories, hotel and restaurant service and other things. Almost every registrant has filled out this data, and it is to be compiled into a report. A glance through the cards gives proof that Appleton benefits considerably by the presence of the tourists through the money that is spent here.

Stocks on hand August 31, constituted 47 days supply at the August rate of consumption, this compares with 54 days supply on August 1, this year and 37 days supply on August 31, a year ago.

A continued decrease in the number of operating refineries is noted in August, the number reporting to the bureau of mines for that month being 260, and their aggregate daily indicated crude oil capacity decreased to 2,055,532 barrels. These plants were operating during August at 73.4 per cent of capacity, running to still a daily average of 1,613,395 barrels of crude oil, the reports says.

Look for These 3 Vital Factors

1: Full property of the business, over a term of both good and bad years, to earn and pay dividends regularly on each dividend date.

3: Permanency
and steady growth of the business over a term of years with a reasonable assurance of continued growth in the future.

Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. 7% cumulative preferred shares now on sale meet all three of these requirements. Each share has a first claim, over and above all debt, on more than $200 of State-appraised, income-producing public service property. This property under State regulation is required to be, and is, kept always in good condition. The company has paid preferred share dividends every three months for the last twenty-three years; common share dividends every year for the last twenty-three years. The business is permanent, supplying indispensable public services. It has grown steadily from the start twenty-six years ago, always under the same management, and has at least two-thirds the normal growth still ahead of it.

If you wish to speculate for big profits in good years, with a chance of no income in bad years, these shares will not interest you. If you want a regular, dependable 7% income, from shares so good that they can always, in case of need, be resold quickly for cash, you cannot, we believe, do better than to buy these shares.

The shares cost $100 each—cash or $5 down and $5 a month per share. Either way, buyers get 7% on every dollar invested, from the day the shares are bought. Nearly 3,000 Wisconsin men and women have bought shares of this issue, sold with the State's approval to finance growth, since May 1.

The Company is selling the shares direct to investors through its own offices and those of its associated companies in this State. If you have money that is earning less than 7% or that is invested less safely than you wish it to be, or if you would like to get 7% interest on your current savings, it will pay you to talk this matter over with us, or to write for details.

A PROBLEM AS WELL AS AN ASSET

According to the State Highway commission automobile tourists spend approximately $45,000,000 a year in Wisconsin. The estimate is probably not far from correct. The method by which it is reached has some flaws, but on the other hand it does not take into consideration uncounted cars of which there must have been several thousand on the day the official tabulation was made. The count was made August 8th and showed approximately 30,000 cars in the state that day. Of course, there were more than the count showed, so that the basis of calculating the amount spent by the tourists is in this respect too low. On the other hand, the commission estimates that the average automobile spends $15 a day in the state, and we think this is too high. However, it is probably as nearly accurate as an estimate of this kind could be, so that it is fair to assume that our tourists spend somewhere between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 annually.

If, as the commission places it, there is a profit of 20 per cent on this business, it means an annual gain to Wisconsin of something like $9,000,000 from this one source. A business which yields $9,000,000 of profit per year is worthy of our best attention. This is equivalent to a 6 per cent return on an invested capital of $150,000,000. Even if we divide this profit among all the counties of the state it leaves a respectable sum for each. Finally, we have not taken into account the tourist traffic brought in by the railroads, which ought to swell the grand total of profit by another million or two. Nor have we considered the business created by our own motorists who spend their vacations in Wisconsin and who make week-end and other periodical trips, on which money is spent freely.

We should not be surprised if the total amount spent by tourists of all classes, both home and foreign, together with those out for recreation who cannot be classed strictly as tourists, would reach a figure close to $100,000,000 annually. Whatever the amount is, it represents a gigantic figure.

The great bulk of this business is the creation of our good roads system and has come within the last five or six years. It is increasing by leaps and bounds. It forecasts a volume within the next five years that will tax to the utmost our facilities of commercialized hospitality. It presents an appealing perspective to our resort owners and purveyors of food and entertainment. It invites liberal appropriations for the construction and maintenance of our highways. It affords a certain basis for the competition within a comparatively short period of a system of permanent roads that will stand out as the very best to be found in America and as representing in the long run large economies. In an indirect way our tourist business will pay our entire highway bill.

At the same time, this business will soon develop some problems that Wisconsin as a state will do well to anticipate. One of the most necessary things to be done, and that without delay, is to provide larger public areas for campers and sportsmen. The farmer and the private property owner must be protected from the incursions and depredations that will surely come if the tourist does not find at his disposal a convenient outlet for his adventurous spirit and the things, such as swimming, fishing, camping and hunting, that brought him into the state. If we are going to accept this great tourist business, if we are going to solicit it by the advertising of our highways, the charms of our lakes, rivers and other offerings of nature, we are in duty bound to supply what we advertise. It should not be supplied by the individual, but by the state, city or community.

This means the setting aside at an early date of large tracts of land in the lakes and other attractive sections as public parks and playgrounds. Some of these projects are now before the people and will be taken before the next legislature for its action. Efforts are being made to interest the federal government in another undertaking and there are a few that will depend upon public subscription. It is of the utmost importance that these park and playground reservations be made on a scale that will take care of future needs for the next fifty or hundred years. In fact, for as long a period into the future as our foresight and resources will permit. Stricter laws will have to be enacted governing tourist movements and residence, for the protection of field and stream and wild life and for the use of the highways. We shall be wise if we determine these matters now, for the present volume of tourist business and the rapidity with which it is increasing make it certain that unless they are taken care of we shall be swamped and made to suffer many inconveniences and no little loss and injury.

EUROPE AND THE UNITED STATES

While the world pursues its attitude of "hands off" and "watchful waiting," Germany continues to pound upon the rocks. Whether we attribute this to the French policy or to purely internal fermentation, or to both, makes little difference so far as the consequences to Germany itself and to the world at large are concerned. Not only is Germany threatened with a grievous civil war, but with the breaking up of what should be a compact union into rival and weak republics. Unquestionably Europe and Germany will profit by a federation of the several states which make up that country. No matter what France may wish, the world is interested in seeing a prosperous and cohesive Germany which will resume its place among the great commercial and industrial nations. In the present circumstances Germany is headed in exactly the opposite direction. Not only this, but we cannot tell what the precipitate will be when the waters that are boiling have cooled and calmed. Instead of responsible government we may have bolshevism or some other form of communism. That would be repulsive to the whole of Europe and would set Germany back, if the experiment were persisted in for any length of time, even farther than the World War.

In the face of this situation and gloomy outlook, can it fairly be said that the United States has no interest in European affairs? Our humanitarianism alone as well as the derivatives of our melting pot compel an interest there whether we will or not. The intense partisanship with which we espouse various causes arising out of the European dilemma reveals the genuineness of our interest, even though it be a purely emotional interest. And there are the financial and commercial interests that are colossal proportions. It is, therefore, idle to say that America is not concerned with what Europe is or does, for the truth is that it is of the most vital concern to us. What is happening in Germany today is an impressive demonstration of the sad results of our policies of withdrawal and isolation following the unfortunate peace conference at Paris. Had we sat upon the reparations commission there would in all probability be no reparations problem today, no invasion of the Ruhr, no Germany reeling at the brink of a precipice, no misunderstanding between France and England, and a much better prospect of understanding and peace between France and Germany. Had we participated in the activities of the League of Nations, under whatever reservations we chose to make, it is also probable there would have been no war between Greece and Turkey and a much less scattering of the embers of discord that are today menacing Europe with conflict.

Most Americans believe that even today a committee of investigation on which this country was represented could remove the reparations impasse and settle the controversy between France and Germany. Mr. Hughes believes so, Lloyd George believes so and Germany believes so. How much better it would have been to spare the world what has happened in Europe the last two or three years by settling the reparations question right in the beginning. How much farther ahead Europe and the world would be. Our isolationists sneer at this. Let Europe go to pot, is their slogan. She must make her own salvation, or go to perdition. This may pander to cheap jingo sentiment, but it cannot appeal to our conscience or to our common sense. One of these days we will come back to some of the idealism and wisdom of Woodrow Wilson, and when we do we will wonder what has been the matter with us in the time that intervened.

PARANASAL SINUSITIS

Acute sinusitis inflammation of the lining of the air spaces in the skull which communicate with the nasal cavity is sharp and sometimes quite painful. It is usually of short duration, but it may last a week or two and may not recur for months. But there are a great many cases of chronic sinusitis which are like unto a mother-in-law's spring which having no end, it seems, but running on for years and a day. Or maybe not running at intervals, but the sufferer is worse.
The symptoms of chronic sinusitis we need not discuss here, and we will not furnish any correspondence with the symptoms.
Those who carry a septic focus in a nasal sinus understand without being prompted just about how the symptoms are, especially those who have had a heavy operation for the alleged drainage of the infected sinus. This operation of drilling or chipping into the nasal sinuses is getting alarmingly popular, so there are thousands of people who are suffering from chronic sinusitis, before they seem fond of surgery and are unwilling to part with it. They consider the proposition of moving south, or west, or north, or east, to enjoy the beautiful influence of the climate of there. Some of them do move, taking the sinus trouble along to keep them from getting homesick. A great many people have to see for themselves what a good joke the changing of climate is.

The open air life, with plenty of sun exposure, is as helpful for one battling with a chronic sinus infection as it is for one battling with tubercular loss of the lung. It doesn't matter much which part of the country the open air life is lived in; it can be lived everywhere, perhaps with less difficulty in some places than in others.
Some recent research in the way of animal experimentation carried on by medical Doctor Margaret E. Armstrong and philosophical Doctor Amy L. Daniels with the cooperation of bachelor of science Mary K. Hutton, all of Iowa City, and right here let us be thankful for animal experimentation—tend to show that a certain deficiency in the diet may account for the widespread chronicity of nasal sinus infection. These research workers find that when the diet is fortified with items furnishing the fat soluble vitamin A, the sinus infection tends to clear up. Cod liver oil, the crude stuff, is excellent for this purpose; victims of long enduring sinus infection which resists ordinary treatment may well give this agent a trial.

League Gains In Favor Through Corfu Incident

(From The Review of Reviews.)
How the new Europe is emerging, and how it begins to exert its restraining influence, is perhaps better illustrated by this Corfu incident than by anything else that has happened since the map-making changes that followed the war. At the very moment when the opponents of the League of Nations have declared that it had broken down utterly in the face of a real test, it begins to dawn upon the American intelligence that exactly the opposite is the real truth.
It was announced Sept. 13 that Mussolini had consented to the withdrawal from Corfu, Oct. 1, of the occupying Italian troops. This is a triumph of the League of Nations—not as having acted through its machinery, nor by having pronounced a verdict; but rather, in its capacity as a point of focus for the expression of European opinion.
More importantly than at any time since it was formed, the League of Nations was recognized as an international forum. When the Italian view was presented, to the effect that Italy's action was not a matter for League discussion, the French representatives were reluctant to oppose Italy in view of other problems pending; and so the leadership was assumed with great courage on behalf of the British by Lord Robert Cecil.

The French had been insisting, in their Ruhr controversy that the Paris settlements must be upheld. Lord Robert showed that the treaties, if they stand at all, must stand as a whole, and that the obligations to support the League of Nations were as much a part of the peace agreements as were the claims for German reparation. In the new Europe, Britain, France, and Italy are the sole survivors of the former group of six great powers; while Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Roumania, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries are all taking a most active part in European diplomacy and intercourse.
When a small power like Greece, in her depleted state and her troubled policies following Turkish victories, is pounced upon in the assertion of a great power's ambition, it is natural that the increased flock of small sovereigns should support a championship as able and as timely as that which Lord Robert Cecil had assumed.

The United States, it is true, does not hold an official place at Geneva; but American opinion in favor of the judicial or arbitral settlement of the issue between Italy and Greece was unanimous. It was of no particular consequence whether the League of Nations acted directly in respect to the dispute itself, or whether the council of ambassadors at Paris, which is virtually subordinate to the League, offered the solution.
Far from having made a failure and having met a defeat the League of Nations for the first time has really achieved a conspicuous success in a matter that involved war and peace, in a most serious crisis. The important thing is the world opinion itself. But Geneva proved itself a sounding board. To have secured the evacuation of Corfu, with certain details of the dispute referred to The Hague

Q. Please give the date that the stars fell? A. L. C.

A. The Naval Observatory says your question asking the date and year the stars fell probably refers to the meteoric shower of November 1333, the most remarkable one ever recorded. This shower was visible in America from the Great Lakes south almost to the equator. One observer declared that "he never saw snow-flakes thicker in a storm than were the meteors in the sky at some moments."

Q. Why is the title "Dame" applied to Mrs. Lloyd George and Madame Mabea? S. L. V.

A. The title "Dame" as used by Mrs. Lloyd George is conferred upon members of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. This was an order instituted during the war on tribunal, is a precedent that can but encourage Europe in efforts to secure peace through organization.

Economics Of Head Hunting

BY J. D. NEWSOM
Smug self-satisfaction usually characterizes the attitude of the white man in his dealings with so-called backward peoples. He takes neither the time nor the trouble to understand the races with which he comes in contact until it is too late.

Take, for instance, head-hunting in the Solomon Islands. It was a widespread practice and it came to interfere with the planter in need of labor and the missionary in search of converts. So the administrator was called in. He put an end to head-hunting in short order in the islands where there were white residents.

Head-hunting was the focus around which centered all the social and religious institutions of the people. Heads were needed as propitiatory offerings to the tribal ghosts on such occasions as building a new house or making a new canoe. And not only were heads needed for religious purposes but they stood in the closest relation to pursuits of an economic nature.

The actual head-hunting expedition only lasted a few weeks, and the actual fighting often only a few hours, but this was the culmination of a process lasting over years. It was the rule that new canoes should be made for an expedition to obtain heads, and the manufacture of these new canoes was an interesting nature lasting for many months, probably for years.

The process of canoe-building was accomplished by rites and feasts which not only excited the liveliest interest but also acted as a stimulant to various activities of horticulture and pig-breeding. As the date fixed for the expedition approached even more rites and feasts were held.

In putting down head-hunting the alien rulers were destroying an institution which had its roots in the religion of the people and spread its branches throughout nearly every aspect of their culture. At one stroke these islanders lost their religion and their incentive to work and produce. They are dying of sheer boredom, for what has been offered them in exchange is too totally different to make the slightest appeal to their collective imagination.—From Adventure Magazine.

MANITOWOC LOADS UP TO GIVE GRID TEAM REAL BATTLE

Kaukauna's Legion Squad Preparing For Hard Struggle On Sunday

Kaukauna—There is just a little thrill of anticipation in the hearts of Kaukauna American legion football players as the day for the big battle with Manitowoc on their lot draws near. The shipyard city team was defeated here two weeks ago by a score of 18 to 6 after a hard fought battle. It was the legion's fourth victory over Manitowoc in as many years.

Reports from down state indicate that Coach Ashe's outfit isn't going into a Sunday school picnic. The team which played here this season was the prize possession of Manitowoc and its fans sincerely believed it could not be beaten. It is reported that since that fracas the Manitowoc paper has been referring to the coming game Sunday continually and has been predicting a terrible drubbing for the Electric City crew.

A few of the legion men met Manitowoc's manager of last season in Appleton a few days ago and during the conversation pleaded that no expense is being spared to secure a winning team. The home team is leading for victory if it costs them the gate receipts of the entire season to do it. Therefore the thrill of anticipation.

An effort is being made to secure automobiles enough to take every member of the squad to Manitowoc Sunday. Kaukauna fans who plan to go and who will have rooms for a player or two have been asked to notify Manager Edward Rennie at Manitowoc. Cars will meet at the legion hall and will start in a body about 10 o'clock.

GRAND DANCE

at Fraser's Auditorium, Nichols, Wis., Fri., Oct. 26. Music by Blackstone Serenaders of Appleton.

ON THE SCREEN

PICKFORD'S GREAT CHARM

WINS MANY FRIENDS

Her Production Carries Her Audience Away. If By Storm.

Mary Pickford, the eternal little girl is with us once more in her United Artists production, "Through the Back Door," at the New Bijou theatre today and Thursday.

With all her cuteness, all her winsome and whimsical charm, Little Mary is shown depicting one of her famous child roles, the one character in which she will always reign supreme. Even more youthful and beautiful than ever is Mary Pickford in this picture. Her interpretation of the little girl part is more genuine and more convincing than anything she has ever done in the past. In the beginning of this feature she appears in rags, and in "glad-rags" at the finish. Clad in wooden shoes and in the picturesque costume of a little Belgian miss, she caters across the aluminum sheet straight to the hearts of those who watch her from the darkened depths of the seat-filled house.

In spite of the fact that one laughs much at this picture, there comes times when handkerchiefs are not far from the eyes. Especially is this true when Mary as little Jeanne Bodamere comes to America to make herself known to the mother who thinks her dead. Many are the obstacles that she surmounts before the mother finally learns that her little daughter is a servant in her own home. The scene that reveals this is undoubtedly one of the most touching that has ever been filmed.

The opening title tells us that the scenario for "Through the Back Door" was written by Marion Fairfax, and that Jack Pickford and Alfred E. Green co-directed it, while Charles Rosher did the camera work which by the way deserves special mention all to itself.

In the cast we find such familiar names as Wilfred Lucas, Gertrude Astor, Elton Fair, Adolphe Menjou, John Harron, brother of the late Robert Harron and tiny Jeanne Carpenter. All of these give excellent portrayals in their respective parts.

"THE FIGHTING BLADE" A PICTURE NOBODY SHOULD MISS

Against King George III, of England, we waged our wrath and won our freedom. In 1776, that was. More than a hundred years previously, in Merrie England, an outraged people, anxious to have a voice in government, rebelled against the British crown. In 1642, this. And in the five years' war that followed before the monarch, Charles I, was vanquished and the foundations for England's present popular government were laid, there were many daring exploits—none any more spectacular than those of Karl Kerstenbroek, Flemish soldier of fortune who came to England to avenge the death of his sister and remained to become a powerful ally to Oliver Cromwell whose path to success he helped pave by the destruction of Staversham castle. The screen has pictured historical

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c. adv.

romance before. But not until John S. Robertson filmed "The Fighting Blade" was the epochal Cromwellian era touched upon. And in selecting this subject Mr. Robertson has not only contributed worthily to the screen's historical associations but he has given it a production that stands on a par with the biggest and best, and has given the public an entertainment that is destined to remain one of the most memorable Richard Barthelmess is the star of "The Fighting Blade," a First National picture which Elite theatre presented in this city for the first time yesterday and which will be featured the balance of the week. He plays the title role, portraying the redoubtable Kerstenbroek in a manner every bit as admirable. "The Fighting Blade" That is his character. Most feared of all duelists of his day, supreme, superb. Audacious, dashing, daring in the face of death; chivalry, tenderness and humility mark his course with women. And Barthelmess interprets his varying moods with rare skill. We doubt he has a superior as a romantic actor.

GREEN BAY WANTS CHANCE TO HEAR STEFANSSON TALK

Explorer Will Tell Remarkable Story Here On Nov. 8

Green Bay is another of the cities of this locality that is sending inquiries to the chamber of commerce concerning the lecture at Lawrence Memorial chapel Nov. 8 by Vilhelmur Stefansson, America's foremost explorer.

O. L. Mortensen, of the firm of Jorgensen-Biesch Co., Green Bay, asks the chamber for several seats for this lecture, because a delegation is coming here to listen to this noted speaker. Stevens Point sent similar inquiry a few days ago, and the same is true of several other cities of this locality.

SHOWS HIS FAME

"This is indicative of the fame of this man," said H. H. Russell, secretary of the chamber, "and is assurance that everybody in Appleton ought to see and hear this hero of North Pole explorations while he is in our midst. That is our sole purpose in bringing him here, and we are selling seats at 75 cents so that no one need pay more than the actual cost of having him speak in Appleton."

Few people have such a thrilling story to tell as the men who leave the world far behind and chance death in their penetration north toward the North Pole. This is true especially of Stefansson, who has discovered and explored lands that had never been touched by Americans before. He has known what it is to be utterly lost; and to be rescued after years of isolation by relief expeditions sent out by governments.

RICH AS SPEAKER

Those who have heard this man give an address are admirers of him as a speaker. He is a man who unfolds a story of his remarkable life, dressed richly in narrative, and void of the dry utterances sometimes inferred from the title "lecturer." His college education, post graduate work and literary accomplishments have given him a command of words and a wealth of expressiveness that make audiences want him to keep on after he has finished his recital.

Tickets are to be placed on sale.

RUSSELL TO SPEAK TO FARM-CITY FOLK

Committee On Gst Together Dinner Here Will Make Plans This Week

Dean H. L. Russell, head of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, has consented to be the speaker at the gastroenteric dinner business men and farmers here this fall. A meeting of the arrangement committee is to be called this week to make the plans.

The date has not been determined yet. Dean Russell proposes Nov. 20 which is one of the few he has available for addresses this fall.

This gathering was planned as one of the series which has been held this season is a means of permitting business men and farmers to give mutual consideration to their problems. Meetings were held at farms as long as the weather was mild, and the chamber of commerce announced that a dinner would be arranged in Appleton later in the fall.

EXAMINE PUPILS TO DETERMINE HEALTH

Examinations of the throats, teeth and eyes of the children in the first and second district schools are being made by Miss Mary Orblison, who recently accepted the position of school nurse in the two districts. Although records of the examinations of previous years are kept on file, each child is given an examination to be sure that his condition is normal. The children are weighed and measured so that those underweight and overweight may be given proper attention.

The school nurse has a regular schedule by which she works in each school during the time that school is in session. Home calls on cases which require corrective measures take the time of the nurse after school is dismissed use the telephone?

This week and may be obtained at the chamber of commerce office, or from persons or places to be designated later.

Youngsters Learning How To Follow Own Interests

Something different and something the liberal education line that the students of interest to the various groups in the seventh and eighth grades of the first district school closes the school for the students. At 3 o'clock, the normal class room procedure of these two grades is abandoned and each student is free to develop his particular interests with the guidance of a department teacher or with A. G. Oesch, principal of the school.

While the weather is nice, the students are required to choose three interests a week which will keep them inside. These include basketball, track events, team games, and a study of anything which gives the students an opportunity to remain out of doors. The inside activities include drama clubs, Browning clubs, chess, snap interests and anything else along the lines.

When the students and teachers get together to develop a mutual interest in some project, a splendid spirit of fellowship is the result, according to those who are trying it. A cordial invitation is always extended to parents and friends of the students to join in the gatherings and take part in the work.

The Rev. Walton Cole, pastor of the Wausau, of which J. A. Underwood, formerly of Appleton, is at the head, is building a new saw mill at Wausau which will be equipped with a 300 horsepower steam plant.

The company is operating five logging camps in Forest and Ironwood and a season's cut of 15,000,000 feet will be made. It is said to have timber holdings in northern Wisconsin and Michigan sufficient to supply it for 15 years.

FRAWLEY IS HEAD OF ST. NORBERT GRADS

How a Single Industry Spreads Prosperity

A most significant fact about an industry is the large number of people who benefit from it.

Take the cement industry, as an example:

The mills used 9,000,000 tons of coal last year. This meant 9,000 coal miners steadily employed—their families, numbering not less than 25,000, maintained—and along with them tradesmen and other people enough to supply the needs of a town of over 50,000.

That is, of course, saying nothing of the business created for coal operators and transportation lines.

Sacks are not so large an item in the cement industry as coal, yet 50,000,000 new sacks, representing 50,000 bales of cotton, had to be bought last year for replacements alone. Back of this were cotton planters, plantation workers, mill owners, mill operatives and so on—thousands altogether.

And consider these other requirements of the industry last year:

- 3,700,000 barrels of fuel oil
- 3,400,000,000 cubic feet of gas
- 15,000,000 pounds of explosives
- 32,000,000 pounds of greases and oils
- 1,700,000 linear feet of belting
- 4,500,000 firebrick for relining kilns
- 7,000,000 pounds of paper for bags
- 600,000 tons of gypsum

In addition the industry bought quantities of heavy grinding and burning machinery, locomotives, cars, rails, electrical and other necessary equipment.

In this way a single industry spreads prosperity to many others.

ROTARIANS AGREE TO RAISE SCOUT BUDGET HERE

PLEDGE $1,200 AS CITY SHARE OF VALLEY FUND

Budget For Four Cities Will Be $3,000—Churches Promise Help

The boy scout movement in Appleton was given a new impetus at the luncheon of the Rotary club at Conway hotel Tuesday noon by the unanimous adoption of the report of the boys work committee submitted by Charles L. Henderson, chairman, which recommended that the club assume the responsibility for raising Appleton's proportion of the scout budget, $1,200, the results to be shown the coming year to determine whether it shall be made a permanent part of the boys work program.

The report showed that the total budget for the council the coming year was fixed at $3,000, $1,250 of which is to be raised by Neenah and Menasha; $1,250 by Appleton; and $500 by Kaukauna.

Members of the committee suggested in their report that the money be raised by putting on a show in January with the united efforts of the Rotarians, and that the sum required for the first quarter, amounting to $315, be advanced by the Rotary club which is to be reimbursed from the proceeds of the show.

POINT TO SUCCESS.

From the results shown last year when the proceeds from the show amounted to nearly $2,000, the committee said it would be fair to assume that the total amount of the budget, $1,200, can easily be raised.

The report was made by the boys work committee in pursuance with the request of the Rotary club to investigate the boy scout movement in Appleton and make such recommendations to the club as the conditions would warrant.

During the last four months the committee held several meetings with the executive council and representatives of the four cities and from the information it gathered it unanimously recommended that the scout program be continued in Appleton.

Submission of the report was delayed by the committee until it could be sure of the support of Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna. Individuals in Neenah and Menasha guaranteed their amount and the Kaukauna Rotary club guaranteed its proportion, the report said.

PEOPLE WANT SCOUTS. In speaking of the report, Louis Bonini said the action of the committee was more or less influenced by the attitude of the international Rotary, and by the attitude of a great many people interviewed, particularly pastors of the different churches. The general opinion favored a continuance of the work.

While Mr. Bonini said that considerable money had been spent during the previous three years, the ground work had been laid for continuing the work successfully, providing the budget was secured. Commenting on the criticism that had been offered he said it must not be forgotten that a great amount of the work done did not appear on the surface.

CHURCHES HELP. "The scout program," he said, "has been taken from the streets and placed under the direct supervision of the churches which leads us to believe that the continued efforts of the executive whose heart is in the work will bring results right from the start."

"We have been working on this proposition for some time and at meetings in different cities received very little encouragement. They felt as Appleton did, that the movement had fallen by the wayside. It took some little effort to convince them differently."

PAY EXECUTIVE $2,000. "The budget of $3,000 will cover the entire expense. The salary of the executive is to be $2,000. He will spend two days each week in Appleton, two days in Neenah and Menasha and two days in Kaukauna until Little Chute and Kimberly come in, when his time will be divided."

"The budget in Neenah and Menasha is supported by individuals who have been promised the cooperation of two cities. Kaukauna is better situated this time than any of the other cities. The scouts have a log cabin valued at from $1,000 to $1,500 for a meeting place and have all the backing they need. I think Appleton should look forward to the time when they can have some such place to house their boys."

FOLLOW APPLETON PLAN. "We find that the success of the scout movement in Wisconsin has been very small due to the size of the cities more than anything else," C. N. Finnell, district deputy, has stated Appleton three or four times within the last few months. He told us the system we adopted in taking in different cities is being quite generally followed throughout the United States. In some places they take in counties instead of cities. In this way they get first class councils at a minimum cost. He is now organizing a council at Sheboygan and Manitowish."

"The amount of the budget is $3,000. This covers the entire expense. We have eliminated everything but necessities. The method of raising the money will be by putting on some sort of an entertainment the same as last year. We are inclined to feel

W. F. Ashe of Kaukauna was called upon to review the scout situation in Kaukauna. He took exception to the statement that the Rotary club was back of the scout movement of that city but said it had all the support it needed.

During the last four months the committee held several meetings with the executive council and representatives of the four cities and from the information it gathered it unanimously recommended that the scout program be continued in Appleton.

NEENAH SLOWS UP VALLEY MOVEMENT TO AID BOY SCOUTS

Scout Leaders Hesitate To Call On Manufacturers For More Money

Resumption of work on the part of the boy scout council of Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Appleton is temporarily delayed by the situation at Neenah.

At the meeting of representatives of Appleton, Menasha and Neenah at the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening the Neenah delegation announced it did not feel like calling up on the manufacturers of that city for further contributions if it could be avoided.

After a discussion it finally was decided to interest one of the fraternal organizations, possibly the Eagles which have a large membership, and this will be done before any further steps are taken by the council.

The matter will be presented at the next meeting of that organization and if acted upon favorably another meeting will be called in Appleton at which the new scout master will be selected and means provided for carrying on the work.

Kaukauna was not represented at the meeting Tuesday evening for the reason that city is ready to resume its part of the work as well as Appleton and Menasha.

"I want you to promise me something, Ned," she told him quietly. He answered her clearly, from the waistline. "What is it?" "I want you to promise—that if you see there's no hope for me—that you'll go on—without me. Suppose Doomsdorf almost overtook us—and you saw that he could seize me—but you could escape—I want you to promise that you won't wait."

"To run off and desert you?" "Listen, Ned. Use your good sense. Say I was in a place where I couldn't get away, and you could. Suppose we became separated somewhere on the ice, and he should be overtaking me, but you'd have a good chance to go to safety. Oh, you would go on, wouldn't you?" Her tone was one of infinite pleading. "Would there be any use of your returning—and getting killed yourself—when you couldn't possibly save me? Don't you see the thing to do would be to keep on—with the hope of coming out at last—and then getting up an expedition to rescue me? Promise me you won't destroy what little hope we have by doing such a foolish thing as that."

Wondering, mystified by her earnestness, half inclined to believe that she was on the verge of delirium from cold and exertion, his arms tightened about her and he gave her his promise so that she might rest. "Of course I'll do the wise thing," he told her. "The only thing!"

Her strong little arms responded to the embrace, and she joyously drew his face toward hers. "Then kiss me, Ned," she told him, soberly yet happily, as a child might beg a kiss at bedtime. Her love for him welled in her heart. "I want you to kiss me good night."

Slowly, with all the tenderness of his noble manhood, he pressed his lips to hers. "Good night, Bess," he told her simply. For an instant, night and cold were forgotten. "Good night, little girl."

Their lips met again, but now they did not fall away so that he could speak. There was no need for words. His arm about her held her lips to his, and thus they lay, forgetting the wastes of ice about them, for the moment secure from the cruel forces that had bounded them so long. The wind swept by unheard. The fine snow drifted before it, as if it meant to cover them and never yield them up again. The dimmer stars faded and vanished into the recesses of the sky.

The cold's scourge was imminent now. The hour was like some dream of childhood: calm, wonderful, infinitely sweet. The ghost of happiness seemed no longer just a shadow. For the moment Bess' fancy believed it real.

Sleep drifted over Ned. Still with her lips on his, Bess listened till his slow, quiet breathing told her that he was no longer conscious. She waited an instant more. Her arms trembling as she pressed him close as she could.

"I love you, Ned," she whispered. "Whatever I do—it's all for love of you."

Then, very softly so as not to awaken him, she slipped out of his embrace and got to her feet. She started away straight north—at right angles to the direction that they had gone before.

Ned's instincts had been trained like the rest of him, and they watched over him while he slept. They aroused him from sleep as soon as it was light enough to pick his way over the rough ice that lay in front of him in realization of his physical need of rest, not an instant sooner. He sprang up to find the dawn, gray over the ice-bound sea.

But the miracle of the morning, even the possibility that Doomsdorf had made time while he slept and was now almost upon him did not hold his thought an instant. His mind could not reach beyond the tragic fact that he was alone. Bess was gone, vanished like a spirit that had never been in the gray dawn.

Her last words swept through his memory. They came back like the deductions followed swift and sure by the process of remorseless logic. In a single moment he knew the dreadful truth: Bess had not gone on in the expectation of Ned overtaking her, thus saving a few moments of his precious time. She had not gone east at all. She knew the stars as well as he did; she would have never, except by some secret purpose, turned north instead of east. He saw the truth all too plain. She had chosen the direction that would give Doomsdorf the longest chase and take him farthest from Ned's trail. He couldn't follow them both. The morning light would show him that his two fugitives had separated, and she had reasoned soundly in thinking that their enemy would pursue her rather than Ned. His last hope for her was too commanding for him to take any other course. While he pursued her, Ned would have every chance to hurry on eastward to the safety of Bear Island.

Never for a moment did he even consider going on and leaving her to her fate. He could not aid her, and yet in one moment more he had launched forth on her trail, faster than he had ever rushed before. He had no sword, no bow, no sense of safety. There was not even a temptation to take the way of safety. In these last months he had been lifted far beyond the reach of any such feeble voice as that.

He sped as fast as he could along the dim trail she had made. The dawn, icy-breathed, soon outdistanced him, permitting him to see Bess' fleeing form before he had scarcely begun to overtake her. She was just a dark shadow at first against the stretching sea of white, but he never lost sight of her after that. With the brightening dawn he saw her ever more distinctly.

And in the middle distance, west of both of them, he saw the huge dark form of Doomsdorf bearing down upon her.

She had guessed right as to Doomsdorf. Catching sight of her, he had left their double trail to overtake her. Hoping and believing that Ned had taken his chance of safety and was fleeing eastward, she was leading his enemy over father and farther north, away from him.

He was a strong man, this Corner who had fought the North, but the bitter, scalding tears shot into his eyes at the sight of that strange, hopeless drama on the ice. But not one of them was in self-pity. They were all for the silent figure of the girl, trying to save him, running so hopelessly from the brute who was even now upon her.

A moment later, he saw her slip on the ice and in dread, Doomsdorf's arms went about her. Neither of them had apparently observed Ned. They only became aware of him as his great shout, half in rage, half in defiance, reached them across the ice.

Even at the distance that separated them the startled movement of Doomsdorf's head revealed his utterable amazement. Doubtless he thought that Ned was miles to the east by now. The amazement's first way to boarder's triumph as Ned walked calmly toward him. Then while he held the girl prone on the ice with his great knees, Doomsdorf's rifle made blue lightning in the air.

Ned's response was to throw his arms immediately into the air in token of complete surrender. He was thinking coolly, his faculties in perfect control; and he knew he must not attempt resistance now. Only death lay that way; at that range Doomsdorf would shatter him with the ice with one shot from the heavy rifle. It wasn't enough just to be, thus taking a quick road out of Doomsdorf's power. Such a course would not aid Bess. And to Bess he owed his duty—to aid Bess, in every way he could, was his last dream.

At first he had had to play the cruel game for the sake of Lenore. That obligation was past now; but it had never, at its greatest, moved him with one-half the ardor as this he owed to Bess. He must not go to waste to fate, or to any other, until Bess could go with him. He must not leave her in Doomsdorf's power.

Doomsdorf watched him approach in silence. The triumphant gloating that Ned expected did not come to pass; evidently their brute master was in too savage a mood even for this. "Wait where you are," he ordered simply. "or I'll blow your head off. I'll be ready for you in a minute."

He bent and with one motion jerked Bess to her feet. Then in silence, still guarding them with his rifle, he pointed them their way back to his cabin on the island.

It was a long and bitter march across that desolate ice. Except for a stare of his panmican that Doomsdorf distributed, for expiation rather than through any impulse of mercy, Bess could have hardly lasted.

They walked almost in silence. Ned in front, then Bess, their captor bringing up the rear, a strange death march over those frozen seas.

Halloween Supper For To Be Served By Spirits

BY SISTER MARY

Pumpkin pie, apples, nuts and cider seem to go hand in hand with Halloween, but time-honored as they are, there's once in a while a hostess who wants "something different" for her party.

Perhaps the party has dealt heavily with the "occult." What more apropos than a ghost supper served by the spirits themselves?

MENU FOR GHOST SUPPER

Cream of Corn Soup
Toasted Crackers
Shades of Chicken
Spooky Salad
Cheese Cups
Orange Ice
Soothsayers Puff-Balls
Coffee

The cream of corn soup is topped with a spoonful of whipped cream. Fresh buttered popcorn can be served with it in place of the toasted crackers.

Shades of chicken, being the "piece de resistance," requires a recipe.

SHADES OF CHICKEN

One year old chicken, 1 pint oysters, 1/2 pound mushrooms, 3 sweet green peppers, 1/4 cup butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup chicken stock, 1 cup thin cream or rich milk, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 eggs yolk, 1-3 cup minced celery, paprika, hot boiled rice.

Soak chicken in water to cover. The chicken should be tender but not falling from the bones when removed from the fire. Remove from broth and let stand until cold. Remove from bones and cut in neat cubes. Great care should be taken that every bit of skin or gristle is removed from the meat. There should be about four cups. Pick over and wash oysters.

Peel and slice mushrooms. Scald peppers, slip off thin outer film and remove seeds and white ribs. Mince. Melt butter, add mushrooms and cook five minutes. Add flour and stir until smooth. Slowly add stock and milk, stirring constantly. When perfectly smooth add chicken dice, oysters, peppers and celery. Cook until the oysters plump. Add parsley and stir in eggs slightly beaten. Remove from fire and keep hot over hot water. Serve on mounds of rice with a generous dash of paprika.

This recipe is calculated to serve 12 persons.

SPOON'S SALAD

Fill apple shells with a mixture of celery, apple and nuts.

The proportions are as follows:

Two cups diced apples, 2 cups diced celery, 2 cups seeded white grapes, 2 cups nut meats, shredded coconut, salad dressing.

Mix apples, celery, nuts and grapes with salad dressing. Fill apple cups with mixture and shroud with coconut.

To make apple shells cut a slice from stem end of apple. With a grapefruit knife or strong spoon scoop out the inside of the apple, leaving a shell about one-half inch thick.

One and one-half cups sugar, 2-3 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 cup water, 2 1/2 cups pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, whites four eggs.

Cream shortening and slowly beat in sugar. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add alternately with water to first mixture. Add vanilla. Beat white of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into mixture the last thing before baking. Bake in tiny round-bottomed muffin tins. Capsules containing "fortunes" can be stirred into the batter with the flour.

Use the largest sized capsules known as "double 0." Write a fortune on thin slips of paper and put in capsules. There should be a different fortune for each guest, and care must be observed that each cake contains a capsule.

These cakes are frosted with an icing made with the yolks of the eggs.

Four egg yolks, 1 1/2 cups powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons softened butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs slightly. Sift in sugar and continue beating. Add butter bit by bit, beating hard. Beat in vanilla. Spread on cakes and let harden.

Accessories To Use On Dresses

Pearls are worn in double or multiple strands of narrow large pearls. Bracelets are narrow and are set with diamonds, onyx or emeralds or are of cut jet or crystal. There is no limit to the number one may wear, but they should all be on one arm.

Handkerchief bracelets are made of silver-edged ribbon, of pink ribbon set with tiny rosebuds, of jade-green suede sewn with steel beads, of black gros grain ribbon with an ornament of brilliant or marcasite.

Handkerchiefs are squares of potted Georgette in prints of brilliant colors and are worn tied around the wrist or slipped through a handkerchief bracelet.

For evening small oval or oblong vanity cases covered with black moire or grosgrain and with a monogram in brilliants are new. Young girls carry bags of colored shells set one over another to form a large rose, or tiny finger bags in the shape of small dolls in ruffled skirts or Pierrots.

Earrings are long and picturesque and are made of crystal, jade, marcasite, emeralds or sapphires, pearls or diamonds.

Fans are very large and usually of ostrich feathers in charming colors.—From the Delineator.

Window Garden Ideas

BRING IN LATE ANNUALS

The real garden lover is never without one. When winter approaches she makes her first indoor garden of the season by using the late blooming annuals from out-doors.

Pots of French marigold, taken from the outdoor garden before frost, old-fashioned balsams, sweet alyssum, giant candytuft will cheer up the living rooms for several weeks. They should be watered before they get too dry, and showered red often.

Pots of seedlings of annuals are very satisfactory for the winter garden. Start seeds early enough in the season to insure well-grown plants at the time of bringing them into the house.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SIDNEY CARLTON

From now on, my dear Syd, I am going to conduct all my business with you through the mail. I can't understand why you shy at coming over here. You answer my letters with celerity and dispatch. Are you afraid of me or are you afraid of Leslie?

I just cannot understand why you do not come to see us.

Speaking of being afraid, I'm afraid of something that happened recently where the goddess of luck played the cards out to me.

I wonder if you ever met Harry Ellington's wife. She is a very decent sort of girl and was one of the gayest and brightest young women in town before Harry married her.

For some reason she has completely changed since she married Harry. She has settled down as many girls do into a perfect little home body, while Harry has seemed to be more of a rouser than before.

I really felt very sorry for her and the other day I insisted that Harry should bring her up to our apartment to dinner. Leslie took to her immediately, just why I do not know, for she has changed greatly since her marriage. She is perfectly colorless now as far as I can see. Leslie, however, seemed to see something in her that was there before her marriage.

The girls made an engagement with each other to go shopping the next day. Neither Harry nor I knew of this.

After they had fussed around town most of the day, they went into Mary's for tea. Now here is where I come in.

Just after luncheon Harry called me up and said, "Old man, I am lurching with Edith Chapman and I am sure you would like to know her. We're going in the country for a drive and expect to pick up a friend of hers, Miss Dazell. If you'd like to make it a foursome for tea at Martelle's, let me know."

I was very much put out that business kept me from going on this party. To tell you the truth, Syd, I forgot all about Leslie and it seemed perfectly all right to lunch with any woman in a public and thoroughly respectable place like Martelle's, but—

I had reason to give obligations to my goddess of luck that evening when Leslie came home and told me that she and Mrs. Ellington had gone to Martelle's to tea.

While they were there, Walter Burke joined them and, after who should come in of course, but Harry and Miss Chapman? They hadn't taken up Miss Dazell because I could not make one of the party.

I felt myself getting hot all over as Leslie told me this, for you see I didn't know how she would take it, especially as I had found a little fault with her and Mrs. Ellington for allowing Walter Burke to join them.

I wonder if I will ever remember that a married man has the same responsibilities in keeping himself out of the mouths of the gossips that his wife has? As it is, tonight I am promising myself that in the future I shall be a very good little boy. It is a model young man that is writing you this letter, old chap.

In the meantime I am trying to think of just how I shall break up the friendship between Ruth Ellington and Leslie. There is something inexplicable behind those few eyes of Ruth's. She knows too much about our sex. I would not like Leslie to be as self-contained or as sophisticated as she seems to be.

Haven't had a word from Paula Perter for ages. I guess that book is closed.

TOMORROW—Syd's reply — A rebuke and a threat.

Sour Milk Will Clean Pitchers

When a water-pitcher has become brown inside from hard water, let milk stay in the pitcher until sour. Then your pitcher will be as clear and bright as when new.

If gum is accidentally besmeared on furniture, rub a little olive-oil with a soft cloth on the spot and all traces of gum will disappear.

If soot is spilled on the floor, before sweeping it up sprinkle salt on it. The salt keeps the soot together.

Before putting the clothes-boiler away after using, dry thoroughly then rub the inside with a cloth dampened with kerosene. It prevents the boiler from rusting.

When my lace curtains are worn out, I cut them up and stitch three or four layers together. They make lovely dish-cloths, and wear as well as those knitted or crocheted out of yarn.

Cold, damp weather sometimes affects the varnish on musical instruments by turning them a grayish color. If the instrument is held over the fire, the original coloring will gradually return. Rub with oil and its former luster will be resumed.

If you run out of starch when washing, use corn-starch in the same way and you will have good results.

—From the Designer Magazine.

SATIN PAJAMAS

Popular pajama outfits have trousers of black satin-backed crepe and jackets of colorful satin embroidered in gold.

Beltless Dress

The beltless dress that is ever so slightly molded to one's figure is the very newest dress of all. It is the revival of the princess dress and Paris has spoken for it with unanimous approval. The coming season is likely to see even more marked developments in this princess silhouette.

Sketches is an attractive model with a clever way of joining blouse and skirt and the fashionable square neckline that is most becoming.

COLORFUL FROCK

Flamboyant flowers in purple, red and yellow are applied on a bouffant gown of black satin with the fashionable drop-shoulder line and the close-fitting bodice.

Hem Variable, So Is Waistline

The sliding waistline and the variable hem are the latest complications of the fashionable life.

The sliding waistline is the waistline that refuses to stay put. It may be high in front and low in back. It may be the other way around. It may be high above one hip and way below the other. And there is no guarantee that it will stay anywhere. It appears and disappears at will. Only one thing you can be sure of—no one has any more authority to say which way it should slide than you have yourself.

Then the hem! Paris says that most dresses are long—to the ankle and just above. But many of the leading dressmakers, even in Paris, are showing them nine inches from the floor and sometimes even shorter. The thing to do seems to be to choose what is becoming and then insist that it is correct. Nobody will ever be able to contradict you.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Cobweb Net

Little Georgie Porgie Pee Wee was lost. He was so lost that not a shoe button of him was left.

His daddy felt dreadful, his aunts and uncles felt worse still, and his money felt worst of all.

They looked everywhere, then they sent word to Snookums, the wise little King of Pee Wee Land, and Snookums sent word to the Twins.

"You'll have to find Georgie Porgie at once," he said when Nancy and Nick came hurrying in their magic shoes and bumped their heads three times against the royal throne. "Try to find him at once if not sooner. If you don't, I'm afraid I'll have to have a fit, his aunts and uncles too, and his mother a half dozen fits. No doubt, like so many of my other subjects, he has jumped on one of those pesky lightning bugs and gone some place."

"Oh, we'll find him," said Nancy. "We've found every Pee Wee we started out to find and I'm sure

Household Suggestions

FINGERPRINTS

To remove the fingerprints that accumulate on the doorway, use a clean cloth dipped in kerosene, then wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water.

GLOSSY FERN

Wet the earth around ferns every three or four weeks with water to which a little ammonia has been added. This will keep them glossy and green. A teaspoon to a quart is enough.

INDELIBLE INK

When indelible ink stains resist

every other treatment they often succumb to a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and ammonia.

FLOWERS REVIVED

An aspirin tablet added to the water in which cut flowers are kept will revive them if they have begun to wilt.

DYING STOCKINGS

When hanging clothes to dry, hang stockings by the toes and they will not get out of shape.

KID KEPT SOFT

To keep kid gloves soft put them into a tin box with a lump of ammonia wrapped tightly in a flannel.

FASHION HINTS

BLACK AND WHITE

The smart black hat of this season is very likely to have a single white flower, a bow of white fur, or a bit of white grosgrain ribbon on it.

LESS EMBROIDERY

Embroidery is being used more sparingly this season than in the ones just preceding, but with much more distinction. It appears most frequently in bands, or in combination with rhinestones or colored beads.

CHIFFON VELVET

Very thin white chiffon velvet is to be very popular this year for wedding gowns, and naturally this luxurious material needs little in the way of trimming.

OSTRICH PLUCKED

Ostrich feathers are seen on a number of the most recent military imitations from Paris. Usually they are placed so they fall from the brim and give a downward sweep.

New beauty—new safety—new delights, by combating film on teeth

Here is a free test everyone should make. This week your drug-gist will present it to you.

It will show you a new way of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ. You will be amazed and delighted. Go today and get it.

Combat that film

Film is your teeth's great enemy—that vicious film you feel. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That's why teeth lose luster!

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Nearly everybody has suffered from these film-caused troubles.

Dental science has in late years found two great film combatants.

Two other enemies

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

So every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

SCRUB! Yet Have Lovely Hands!

Lovely white hands now for women who do their own work

A new idea in household soap

Yes!—scrub, wash dishes three times daily, do the family washing if you will, yet have charming hands!

It's a fairy story come true.

Yet it cleans more quickly and safely than the old-time laundry soap. You will call it a new delight.

Use it freely—it won't injure either you or fine fabrics.

Your Hands Tell the Story

Rough, ugly hands tell a story to the world. A story of the kitchen, the laundry, the scrub bucket.

Most women do housework. But few want to tell it to every chance acquaintance.

Most laundry soaps contain 25% to 40% water glass. This adulterant, technically known as silicate of soda, is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic. It is this "filler"—not soap—that ruins hands. Green Arrow is made with the precision of a toilet soap and is pure soap.

Now you can have white and lovely hands regardless of how much kitchen work you can do.

For your hands and your clothes sakes, go to your grocer and insist on buying GREEN ARROW.

Olive oil!

The name of this new soap is Green Arrow.

It contains olive oil—as mild and gentle as a fine toilet soap.

$25,000 SUIT FIRST NEWS OF ACCIDENT

Manitowoc Man Sued For Mishap Which He Knew Nothing About

Manitowoc—To be made defendant in a $25,000 damage suit, the cause of which you know nothing of, is the unusual experience which M. H. Dempsey, banker, and his wife are undergoing. Papers have been served on the local people in behalf of Albert Schroeder, a Milwaukee man, who claims he was injured in September, 1922 when he was struck by an automobile of the Dempseys.

The action came as a total surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey and they believe they are victims of mistaken identity. According to the complaint, Schroeder was run down on the afternoon of Sept. 28, 1922, at Fond du Lac avenue and the Hampton road, in the town of Wauwatosa. Schroeder's right leg was broken, his knee cap torn off and he was hurt internally. He spent four months in a hospital and is permanently crippled, he claims.

The accident is a revelation to the defendants. They maintain that they have never run down a pedestrian in Milwaukee or elsewhere, do not know the plaintiff, Schroeder, and were not in Milwaukee or vicinity in September, 1922.

Mr. Dempsey is president of the First National bank here. He is confident the case will be disposed of before it reaches court.

I SPIED TODAY

JIGGS LIVES ON CLARK-ST. As a load of cabbage was being driven down Spring and Clark-st. at 9:30 Tuesday morning, a wheel broke off the wagon, causing some of the cabbage to roll into the street. The driver went to Marston's yard and got a coal wagon in which to finish hauling his cabbage. He was unable to get all the heads in the borrowed vehicle and left some in his own wagon. The children in the neighborhood relieved him of the necessity of making another trip.

WHO'S PEDDLING THIS BIKE? Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock I was walking along Appleton-st. between Washington-st. and the avenue, when two boys on one bicycle passed. They were arguing as to whether cyclists were to head arterial signs. The boy who was propelling the bicycle said they must stop but the boy riding the handle bars who had to jump off and then climb on again, said they could go through without stopping.

I watched to see the result and saw the boy riding the bars gently but firmly "ditched" when the arterial sign was reached. Mrs. E. H. B.

Made "Billionaires" By Act Of Grim Reaper

W HEN Rudolph Piontek of North Tonawanda, N. Y., took out an insurance policy in the Aid Association for Lutherans of this city he did not dream that he was making "billionaires" out of his father and mother.

Yet that is what happened when the Grim Reaper took him away and obligated the association to pay his policy.

This odd caper resulted from the fact that the parents, beneficiaries of a $1,000 life insurance policy, are residents of Germany. The young man was 22 years old and subscribed for the insurance in April of this year. He was unmarried so made the money payable to his parents who live at Usterode, East Prussia.

Within four months after taking the policy the young man submitted to an operation for appendicitis and died. In previous times the beneficiaries would have received the equivalent of about 5,000 marks from the aid association. However, under the hectic inflation of German currency the marks were obtainable at one million for one and one half cents of American money. On this basis the Piontek family will receive out of its $2,000 payment approximately $66,666,666 marks, making them "billionaires" by a wide margin.

It was necessary for the association to obtain proof of identity from Piontek's parents and therefore mailed the required papers to Germany to be executed and attested before a notary public. The document came back and notations by the notary public showed that the parents had been charged 140,500,000 marks for the acknowledgment of signatures by that official, and 45,000 marks for placing the official seal on the document.

ECKMAN GUILTY OF 1ST DEGREE MURDER

Elkhorn—Adolph Eckman, Sharon farmer, was found guilty of first degree murder early on Wednesday for the slaying last July of Carl Fritz, a Johnston farmer.

The jury in the Walworth Circuit court returned its verdict shortly after midnight after having been deliberating since 5 p. m. on Tuesday.

Notice that a motion for a new trial would be filed was given by M. O. Mount, counsel for the convicted man, immediately after the return of the verdict.

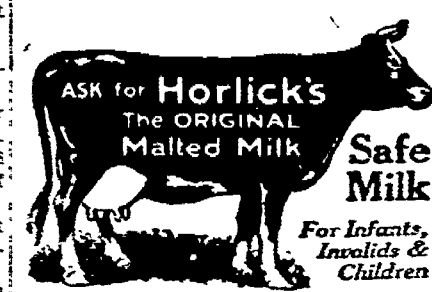

Punishment for murder in the first degree is a sentence to the penitentiary for life.

Seven days were taken for the trial of case, one in which contradicting testimony was marked. The state's contention, as presented by District Attorney Alfred Godfrey, was that the defendant killed Fritz, a neighbor, after a quarrel over ownership of a shotgun. Eckman pleaded self-defense and testified he shot Fritz after he had attacked Mrs. Eckman in their home.
